1. What this form is for

This form should only be used by men providing sperm for pronuclear transfer (PNT) that will only be used to create embryos with the mitochondrial donor's eggs (ie, because the patient's partner is a close genetic relative of the mitochondrial donor). His sperm will not be used to create embryos with the patient's eggs and therefore he will not be the genetic parent of any resulting children. It is not required if the man is already registered as a sperm donor or the sperm provider is the partner of the patient.
